Hazardous Weather

Hazardous Weather

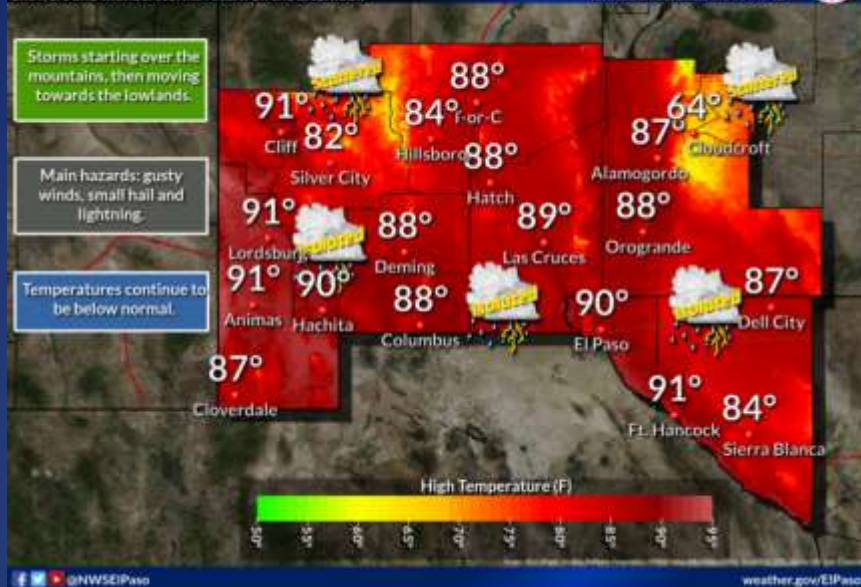

Friday

Showers and thunderstorms return on the afternoon

Weather Forecast Office

El Paso, TX

Issued Jun 03, 2021 8:04 PM MDT

A similar weather pattern continues on Friday. Therefore, expect more storms to develop early in the afternoon over area mountains like the Sacramento Mountains and over the Gila Region. Then, this activity is expected to move to the lowlands later in the afternoon. Any storm will be capable of producing gusty winds, small hail and cloud to ground lightning. The cloud cover should keep our max temperatures again below normal.

Today

Below normal temperatures with a chance of storms

Weather Forecast Office

Midland/Odessa, TX

Issued June 4, 2021 2:28 AM CT

Below normal temperatures are expected today with a chance of storms across portions of the area.

Scattered to numerous thunderstorms possible across West Central Texas today. Unseasonably cool today with highs struggling to reach the upper 70s and lower 80s. Localized flooding in strongest thunderstorms today and watch out for cloud to ground lightning, too.

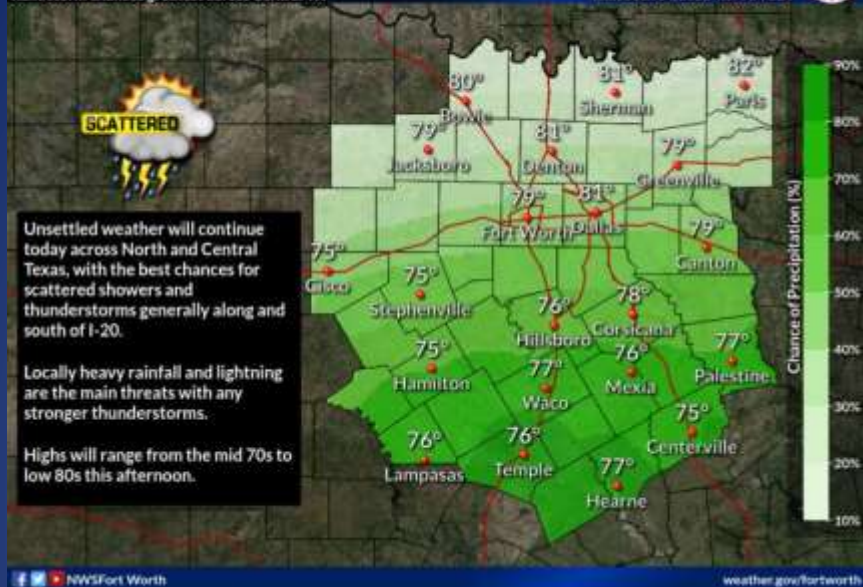

Hazardous Weather

Friday

Rain/storm chances greatest across Central TX

Weather Forecast Office
Fort Worth, TX

Issued Jun 04, 2021 4:07 AM CDT

Unsettled weather will continue today across North and Central Texas. The best chances for scattered showers and thunderstorms will be generally along and south of I-20. Locally heavy rainfall and lightning are the main threats with any stronger thunderstorms. Highs will range from the mid 70s to low 80s this afternoon.

Today: Continued High Chances for Rain Central/East

Locally Heavy Rain Possible: Only Isolated Storms Forecast for the Rio Grande

Weather Forecast Office
Austin/San Antonio, TX

Issued Jun 04, 2021 3:48 AM CDT

Rain chances will increase again later today into the early evening. Locally heavy rainfall and isolated areas of flash flooding remain possible. With an abundance of clouds and rain, temperatures could struggle to get out of the 70s over many locations, but western counties should see more sunshine and highs in the middle 80s.

Hazardous Weather

Scattered showers and thunderstorms will continue as deep gulf moisture continues to be pumped into the area due to an upper level low over Texas. Lows will be in the upper 60s to lower 70s with east to southeast winds around 5 mph.

While the showers and thunderstorms that impacted the area yesterday evening have dissipated and cleared the area, additional development will be possible again today as a mid level low sets up over Texas. However, model trends are backing off on convective development for today, so rain chances may need to be lowered. Otherwise, today will be warm, but slightly cooler than normal. Marine conditions will be favorable besides the showers and thunderstorms with low seas and light southeast winds.
